

Occasionally, we see certain individuals pass through our lives who have a significant impact on the world around them. Now, we are not talking about a local or regional impact, not even a national impact. We are talking about a worldwide impact. It is believed that Pope John Paul II was the most widely known man in our present day world. His tenure as pope was the most active in history and he was easily the most well traveled pope in history. Now that he has passed away, the question of his true impact still remains – What does his passing mean to you? Was he your spiritual guide? Was he an example of a religious man, or was he just another religious man to you? This program will review his impact on us, the world and you – what does it all mean?
